

narrative molding

Summary

Get your student's creativity flowing by asking them to design and write about a new species of animal.

Set up

3-6 colors of Play-Doh compound

Directions

Using Play-Doh modeling compound, ask students to use their imagination to create a new species of animal that does not currently exist.

Through Brainstorming, Creating and Sharing, students will have the opportunity to design their animal, name it, decide it's habitat/environment and what it eats.

Students will then write a short narrative about their new species describing its key features and traits.
